PHYSICAL AGILITY TEST INFORMATION SHEET

It has been well documented that law enforcement personnel (as an occupational class) have serious health risk problems in terms of cardiovascular disease, lower back disorders, and obesity. Law enforcement agencies have the responsibility of minimizing known risks. Physical fitness is a health domain which can minimize the “known” health risk for law enforcement officers. Physical fitness has been demonstrated to be a bona fide occupational qualification (BFOQ). Job analyses that account for physical fitness have demonstrated that the fitness areas are underlying factors determining the physiological readiness to perform a variety of critical physical tasks.

SECTION 1 SIT AND REACH TEST

Description:

This test measures the flexibility of the lower back and upper leg area. It is an important area for performing police tasks involving range of motion and is important in minimizing lower back problems. The test involves stretching out to touch the toes or beyond with extended arms from the sitting position. You will be required to sit on the ground or floor with your knees straight and feet flat against a sit and reach box. Your forward movement must be steady and even, not a lurching motion. The sit and reach box is marked in inches. The score is in the inches reached on a yard stick with 15 inches being at the toes.

Preparation:

Prepare for this test by performing sitting type of stretching exercises daily. There are two primarily recommended exercises:

Sit and Reach: Do 5 repetitions of the exercise. Sit on the ground with legs straight. Slowly extend forward at the waist and extend the fingertips toward the toes (keeping legs straight). Hold for 10 seconds.

Towel Stretch: Sit on the ground with the legs straight. Wrap a towel around the feet holding each end with each hand. Lean forward and pull gently on the towel extending the torso toward the toes.

SECTION 2

1 MINUTE SIT UP TEST

Description:

This test measures the muscular endurance of the abdominal muscles. It is an important area for performing police tasks that involve the use of force and is an important area for maintaining good posture and minimizing lower back problems. The correct sit up for the test will consist of hands clasped behind the head with the fingers interlocked. Your shoulder blades must touch the mat or floor in the down position. The score is the number of bent leg-sit ups performed in 1 minute.

Preparation:

Prepare for this test by using a progressive routine. Do as many bent leg-sit ups (hands behind the head) as possible in 1 minute. At least 3 times a week, do 3 sets (3 groups of the number of repetitions you did in one minute).

SECTION 3

ONE REPETITION MAXIMUM BENCH PRESS

Description:

This test measures the maximum weight pushed from the bench press position and measures the amount of force the upper body can generate. It is an important area for performing police tasks requiring upper body strength. You will be required to lie on your back with your feet on the floor or bench. You will lower the weight to touch your chest, and then return the weight to starting position. The score is a ratio of weight pushed divided by body weight.

Preparation:

Preparation for this test will depend upon whether you have access to weights.

If you have access to weights: determine the maximum weight you can bench press one time. Take 60% of that poundage. This will be the training weight. You should be able to do 8-10 repetitions of that weight. Do 3 sets of 8-10 repetitions adding 2 ½ to 5 pounds every week.

If you do not have access to weights: exercise using pushups. Determine how many pushups you can do in one minute. At least 3 times a week, do 3 sets of the amount you can do in one minute.

SECTION 4

1.5 MILE RUN

Description:

This is a timed run that measures heart and vascular system capabilities to transport oxygen. It is an important area for performing police tasks involving stamina and endurance and will help to minimize the risk of cardiovascular problems.

The score for this test is the time in minutes and seconds.

Preparation:

Prepare for the 1.5 mile run on a gradual basis. Below is a gradual schedule that would enable you to perform a maximum effort for the 1.5 mile run. If you can advance the schedule on a weekly basis, then proceed to the next level. If you can do the distance in less time, then that should be encouraged.
